

As an operator of a Private Land Mobile radio system licensed in the VHF band (30-50 MHz), I am alarmed that the FCC would even consider allowing the use of power lines to carry broadband signals with frequency components up to 80 MHz. Power lines are ANTENNAS at these frequencies, and there are thousands of other licensed users of this spectrum that would receive harmful interference as a result of BPL.